

Henderson County Sheriff Rick Davis announces the establishment of a website dedicated to seeking information in the homicide of Charity Worley. The website; www.charityworley.com, was established by investigators in the Criminal Investigations Division of the Sheriffs Office, who have continued to work tirelessly to solve this homicide.

Sheriff Davis stated "People need to understand that we do not give up. Even though we have not had any pertinent information to share with the public, this case has not been put on a back burner. These officers take their work personally and are as committed as ever to solve this case. This website underscores our commitment and we hope that it will generate a lot of interest and bring in fresh information. We are also grateful to Governor Perdue for the reward funds that were approved for this case and to the support provided us by the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation."
