

Thursday October 22 2009

Just a reminder that Sheriff Rick Davis of Henderson County is hosting a FBI National Academy Conference tomorrow at Blue Ridge Community College in Flat Rock tomorrow, Friday the 23rd. There are three conferences held across the state each year and we are proud to have been chosen to host this one. The purpose of the conference is to provide training and information sharing opportunities between local, state and federal law enforcement agencies.

The FBI National Academy is a professional course of study designed to encourage professional leadership standards and improve the administration of justice in police agencies in the U.S and throughout the world. These conferences serve to bring FBI National Academy alumni together to discuss new concerns and procedures that affect law enforcement concerns nationally and internationally. Sheriff Davis is an FBI National Academy graduate himself.

The conference starts at 0930 at the Blue Ridge Conference Hall with the "Posting of the Colors", by the North Henderson High School Air Force Jr. ROTC. At this time, we are expecting over 125 participants.